

UNIVERSIDAD
POLITECNICA
DE VALENCIA

Allow me to take the opportunity to welcome you to the City of Québec where Université Laval was founded nearly 145 years ago. The University is deeply rooted in this City, which is at the source of Canada's intellectual and cultural life.

Université Laval has always been at the avant-garde of a wide variety of fields of Knowledge, and we are delighted that it has, for some time now, focused on heritage. It is not surprising, therefore, to see it taking a leadership role in this field of activity, so often connected with the past, and yet, so turned toward the future.

We sincerely hope that your work will lead to promising proposals for computer networking so that your goals of communicating and cooperating can be achieved in the not-so-distant future. By welcoming the IInd international Seminar of Forum UNESCO – University and Heritage, Université Laval is proud to help you reach your objectives.

You may rest assured of Université Laval's unfailing commitment to Forum UNESCO – University and Heritage's mission. I wish you a most stimulating Seminar.

Yours sincerely,

Façois Tavenas

Rector and

President of the Honourary Committee
